

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

The present invention relates to workflow systems with a route where the route controls the sequence of workflow nodes to execute a business process. In one embodiment the present invention provides a sub-route selection screen to a workflow user so the user can adapt the route to match the requirements of the business process.

TOP SECRET